QUALITY BERRY PLANTS

Mr. Mullins is County Agent at Chattanooga, as well as head of Mullins Plant Farms.

On Aug. 31, 1949, he wrote: "We have the best plants we have ever had. In fact they are the best I have ever seen." On Sep. 6th he wrote: "We will have the best plants this year we have ever grown. We spaced our rows wide apart and fertilized them heavy. They will be big plants with long roots.

"I had a letter from Mr. Stites of Texas giving me an order for 3 million plants. He visited us in April to inspect our plants.

"W. W. Magill, Extension Horticulturist, was here from Kentucky looking for plants for his growers, who have gotten crown borders in plants from other sources. He was interested in finding a good source of supply for the growers of his state. He was well pleased with my plants.

WHAT GROWERS AND NURSERIES SAY:

A Gold Beach, Ore., grower: "Out of 12 orders to 12 nurseries in 6 states, from Maryland to Oregon, there were two extraordinarily well packed shipments, the one from Maryland and yours (Mullins'), the root systems well developed and growing ahead of nearby purchased plants."

An Oakland nursery: "We were well pleased with stock purchased from you during the past two years and would like to place our order for coming fall and winter with you."

A Camarillo nursery: "We were well pleased with your handling of our order last year and we know that we can depend on you to give us the same quality of stock that we have received in past years."

A Gardena nursery: "The plants arrived in very fine shape from Tennessee."

A Portland nursery: "I must say we are more than satisfied with your service and so here goes for some more. ... Your stuff arrived well and really looks good."

WARRANTY: We exercise the greatest care to keep our varieties pure and true to name and hold ourselves in readiness to replace on proper proof all stock which may prove otherwise or refund the amount paid, but it is mutually agreed between the purchaser and ourselves that we shall not be held liable for any amount greater than the original price.

THE KAYBERRY is said to have originated in Washington, a cross of the wild blackberry X Loganberry. The berries look very much like the wild blackberries in shape and color, but are HUGE, often growing 2½ inches long. KAYBERRIES retain the small seeds and soft juicy core of the wild blackberry, and like it they freeze well, holding both the shape and flavor.

KAYBERRIES produce abundantly and for a long season, making them highly desirable either for commercial growing or for the home garden. At times a 10 pound flat of berries has been picked at a single picking from one vine. Berries ripen in early summer and continue for three months or until cold weather prevents their ripening. The berries are firm and stand up well in shipping and in the fresh fruit market. Unlike the large hard thorns of the Tree Blackberry, KAYBERRY thorns are small, much like those of the Boysenberry.

W H A T U S E R S S A Y:

Mrs. Wickman's Home-Made Pies, Seattle:

"Kayberries are delicious, different, delightful. Our customers are pleased with their wild blackberry flavor and are demanding more and more."

Frederick & Nelson, Seattle: "...regarding the result of our experiments with this berry...the Kayberry was a very outstanding and delicious berry. The flavor we thought was superior to any of the common berries such as Loganberries, raspberries, etc. We tried the berries in pies, cobbler and sherbet and each of these items was very delicious."

Earl Brines & Sons, Wholesale Fruit and Produce: "Kayberries have the best keeping qualities of any commercial berry plus remarkable flavor, as good or better than the wild blackberry...Consumer demand is increasing all the time."

The supply of these plants is limited, so early orders are advised.

The Kayberry has done well in Southern California.
